Dealing with Difficult Behaviours in the Classroom

13-16 November 2003

A Preface

For developing Module 4 objectives, we have planned to do it about dealing with difficult behaviours among pupils. Teachers need to find out new techniques to handle the problematic situations in the class. Another problem is to identify the different problems and to get some solutions from the School Institution or from outside. Sometimes, teachers work alone without exchange their ideas, suggestions or problems. It is necessary to interact among them and to get some help from other professionals such as doctors, psychologists, psychiatrists, pedagogues, etc.

Our aim is to get more aids, communication and more cooperation with teachers to deal with the difficult behaviours. To get this aim it is necessary to teach the teachers some techniques to control the pupils' behaviours in their classes.

B Aims/Targets of Module :

General Aims

- Improve the teacher's knowledge about pupil's difficult behaviour.
- Analyze the necessity of communication and help among colleagues and from the Educational Institutions.
- Realize the importance of the discipline in the classroom.
- Know the most usual difficult behaviours in the school.

Specific Aims

- Learn how to avoid the big problem of the difficult behaviours in the school, at the individual, and class-group level. Analizing the role of the teacher when he/she is dealing with the pupil's attitudes. At the same time, they are going to learn some new techniques to improve the control of the students in the classroom.
- Analyze some ways of treating the discipline problems, working with other institutions, using different centers and activities, identifying internal resources and objectivatizing them, recognizing the cooperative work among the different educational institutions and promoting it among the teachers and families.
- Recognize the situations that avoid to have a real behaviour problem, and how to facilitate this communication among teachers and with their students. Personal and social habilities to deal with the discipline subjects.

F Qualitative Evaluation

1. Qualitative methods:

Likes: -The techniques, strategies for the teachers.

- Everything and specially the referents.
- The dances and the knowledge of the body.
- The musical sessions.
- To try to solve the behaviour problems.
- The non verbal communication through dance and music.
- The mediation session.
- The theory and the practise and the relation among the participants.
- The Ana Pardo's session was the most interesting.

Dislikes:- Too many forms and questionnaires to complete.

Comments:- To go deeper in the Musicotherapy.

- Teachers want and need more Seminars like this.
 - More time to know deeper the different techniques.
 - The module 4 was very interesting and useful.
- To promote the interaction among teachers from the different countries.

2. Results: The teachers are very satisfied to participate in the module 4 because they have learnt new things about dealing with difficult behaviours. At the same time, they learnt some new techniques to improve their personal and professional situation.
